

INFORMATION FOR FOREIGN NATIONALS WHO ENROLL IN THE KOBE CITY NATIONAL HEALTH INSURANCE SYSTEM

The National Health Insurance is a mutual support system that ensures that everyone enrolled can receive medical treatment in case of an illness or injury. If you present your health insurance card at the hospital, you will be able to receive medical treatment for a fraction (30%) of its cost. There is also a ceiling amount for out-of-pocket expenses, so should you require expensive treatment, you can apply for a refund of the fees you paid in excess of this ceiling amount.

Foreign nationals under the age of 74, who are going to be registered as residents in Kobe for more than three months and are not covered by any other public health insurance program, must enroll in the National Health Insurance System. Please note that having overseas travel insurance is not the same as being enrolled in a public health insurance program. Moreover, even if your current period of stay is shorter than three months, if you live in Kobe and your status of residence is either Entertainer, Technical Intern Training, Dependent, or Designated Activities*, you must enroll in the National Health Insurance System in case you are expected to stay in Japan in excess of three months based on the documents you submitted.

*The following “Designated Activities” are excluded:

- Receiving medical treatment
- Activities supporting the daily needs of a person receiving medical treatment
- Tourism, recreation and other similar activities
- Spouses accompanying those taking part in tourism, recreation or similar activities

In order to receive this reimbursement, you will have to file an application with the National Health Insurance Service Desk at your local ward or branch office (Seishin Chuo Community Service Center for those who live within its jurisdiction) and submit all the necessary documents, such as the statement of medical treatment and expenses, and a payment receipt. (You will be reimbursed within two to three months.)

- ❖ If you enroll or withdraw from the National Health Insurance System in the middle of a fiscal year, your insurance premiums will be prorated on a monthly basis.
- ❖ Your actual insurance premiums may be lower than the amount resulting from the aforementioned formula, once various reductions are taken into account.
- ❖ In order to ensure that your insurance premiums are calculated correctly, please make sure to file your tax returns in a timely fashion.

■ When do I need to start paying insurance premiums?

Insurance premiums are charged from the month in which you become eligible for enrollment in the National Health Insurance System (not from the month when you actually applied for enrollment). If you fail to enroll in the National Health Insurance System in due time, you will be charged the insurance premiums retroactively (for up to two years).

■ Insurance premiums for one year must be paid in monthly installments from June to March of the next year (ten installments in total)

If you enroll in the middle of a fiscal year, you must pay your insurance premiums for the period starting from the month in which you became eligible. You will have to pay them in monthly installments starting from the month you enrolled or the following month, through March of the next year.

■ Insurance premium payments are due on the last day of each month (the following business day, if the last day of the month is a bank holiday)

If you set up an automatic bank transfer, the insurance premium payments will be charged to your account on the 27th of each month (the following business day, if the 27th falls on a bank holiday).

SETTING UP AN AUTOMATIC BANK TRANSFER IS A SAFE AND EASY WAY TO PAY YOUR INSURANCE PREMIUMS

You can set up automatic bank transfers at various financial institutions, such as banks, shinkin banks, credit unions and agricultural cooperatives, as well as the Japan Post Bank and post offices.

- If you experience a significant decline in income due to resignation, retirement, bankruptcy or other reasons, you may be eligible for a reduction or an exemption from paying your insurance premiums. Should such situation arise, please contact us for consultation.
